AD CLUB WILL BE ORGANIZED

Student Council Starts Movement to Boost M. U.—Potter Heads Committee.

Foundation stones for the reorganization of the Advertising Club of the University were laid Tuesday night when the Student Council, in a special session at the Y. M. C. A. Building, adopted a constitution and appointed the executive officers of the club for this year. This organization will be about the same as the old Ad Club which died out during the war.

The first purpose of the club is to advertise the University, not so much to increase the enrollment, but to bring the aims and purposes of the school to the people of the state. To accomplish this the club will be divided into groups, with each group including a student speaker, a faculty member, a quartet and perhaps a prominent Tiger athlete. These groups will be sent all over Missouri and adjacent states where they will visit the larger high schools. The University year book, the Savitar, will be distributed free to these schools, and other methods, not yet developed, will be used to acquaint the public of the University's activities. The club will get in touch with the commercial clubs of various cities, and they will be asked to co-operate.

The general plan for organizing the club is to bring together the various county and state clubs of the University into one big organization. One member from each county and state club, to be elected by that organization will represent that county or state in the Club. Other members will include the student council, the managing editor and the advertising manager of the Savitar and faculty members. The executive officers for the year, appointed by the Student Council last night are: Chairman, Louis D. Potter; vice chairman, J. Max McCann; and secretary, treasurer, Don Whitcomb. These officers are under the supervision of the Student Council. With such effective organization it is believed that the club will wield a strong influence not only in the state, but also in the University in regard to various student activities.

The county and state clubs are asked by the council to hold their meetings and elect their delegates to the Advertising Club before October 15. The name and address of each delegate should be handed in to Mr. Potter. All county clubs not organized this year are urged to do so at once and send in their delegates.

For the purpose of raising funds to send the squads of men out over the state next spring, an Ad Club Carnival will be given about the first of the year, it was announced last night. Plans for the carnival will be worked out after the organization is completed. Each county club will be assigned its part in all such activities.

To insure a permanent organization the Student Council will appoint officers of the club a year in advance. All members will be active while they attend the University, although they will be ex officio after the first year. All officers have to be seniors in the school.

CUBAN ELECTION THIS FALL

Interest There Second Only to U. S. Presidential Contest.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The State Department here is awaiting the presidential elections next November in Cuba with an interest probably second only to the Presidential elections in the United States.

While the choosing of an American President will decide the future foreign policy of the United States, the elections in Cuba will determine whether the Cuban electoral laws as drafted by United States government are to prevent abuses and bloodshed in the selection of a chief executive of Cuba.

Although requested to do so by the Liberal Party, the American government has decided not actually to supervise the elections in Cuba. It is stated officially, however, that the fact that "the United States may again be called upon by the Cuban people for a decision regarding the fairness of the election, makes it incumbent upon the government of the United States to use all available means to observe the conduct of the electoral procedure in Cuba."

INTRIGUE AND ROMANCE
As is usual in Latin-American politics, intriguing interest of romance and adventure attaches to the impending selection of a president of Cuba.

The two main candidates in the Cuban elections are Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, of the Liberal Party, and Alfredo Zayas, candidate of the Coalition League; while Gen. Rafael Montalvo is trying to establish his candidacy as the selection of the Conservative Party.

The Conservative Party in Cuba, on August 27, formed a coalition with followers of Zayas, who was the candidate of the Liberal Party for the presidency in 1916. By accepting Zayas, the Conservative Party, threw over Gen. Montalvo, who already had been proclaimed as the Conservative candidate for president. General Montalvo now claims that he was ousted from the candidacy through fraud and intrigue and that he still considers himself the Conservative candidate. He has taken his case before the Central Elections Board and says that if necessary he will take it before the Supreme Court of Cuba.

Dear Sir:—

I have before me the report of an examination into the condition of the above named association for the period ending August 31, 1920.

Real estate and stock loans are in good condition. All cash both on hand and in bank fully accounted for.

I congratulate you upon the increase in your assets of over $44,000.00, which shows conclusively that you and your board of directors have been awake to the interests of your association and that of your community.

I also congratulate you upon the very excellent manner in which your books, records and files are kept, which proves that you have a most competent and painstaking secretary in charge of your affairs.

Trusting that the coming year may show a still larger increase in your assets, I am,

Yours truly,
JOHN A. LEE,
Supervisor.
